Tortilla

After coming to Texas I was familiar with the name of 'tortilla'. Here maxican food is very famous. 'Tortilla' plays a big role in mexican cuisin. They make various dishes with this tortilla and many of them tastes really delicious. With tortilla you can make 'taco', 'burrito', 'quesedilla', 'enchilada' etc. I really love each of them and that's why I want to make tortilla in my own kitchen. Usually they use vegetable lard for the dough, as I didn't have that in my home, I used lots of vegetable oil. You can use olive oil also. So, here is how I made my tortillas ...

Ingredients

1 cup of all purpose flour / maida.
1/2 Teaspoon baking powder.
1/2 Teaspoon salt.
4 Tablespoons of vegetable oil.
Warm water.

Steps

Put the flour, baking powder and salt in a mixing bowl.
Mix the dry ingredients first with your hand.
Then add the oil. Mix this with flour very well.
Gradually add warm water and make a soft dough.
Knead the dough for 6 minutes properly.
Then cover the dough with a damp tissue or cloth for 20 minutes.
Now make a lemon size ball out of the dough.
Roll the ball in dry flour once.
Flatten the ball to 2-3 inches with the help of a rolling pin.

Place it on a medium hot tawa. Keep it for 1-2 minute.

When you will see some bubbles flip it to the other side.

Again keep the other side for 1-2 minutes.

Remove it from the pan.

If you will use the tortillas later, then keep them in a air tight container or ziplock bag. No need to refrigerate.

Biulir Daal / Urad daal (Pure bengali style) / Koler Daal

Soul food means the food which you can enjoy from the bottom of your heart while eating. Being a bengali I always face a common question- 'fish and posto(poppy seeds) are your soul food, right?'. And my answer is always 'oh, hell yaa' ... Today I will talk about vegetarian food. We always make 'biulir daal' / 'urad daal' with posto. The combo is nothing but heavenly. There is a must ingredient we use in our urad daal is 'hing' / asafoetida. Many bengalis also enjoy this meal with fried eggplant / begunvaja. The recipe is very simple and easy. It is a no onion and no garlic dish. Try this in your kitchen and make your lunch a traditional one.

Ingredients

- 1/2 cup of urad daal.
- 1 cup of water.
- 2 pinches of hing / asafoetida.
- 1 Teaspoon crushed fennel seeds / mouri.
- 1/2 Teaspoon ginger paste,
- 1 dry red chilli.
- 3 green chillies.
- 1 bay leaf.
- 1 Teaspoon turmeric powder.
- Salt.
- 2 Tablespoons of mustard oil.

Steps

Dry roast the urad daal for 6 minutes in a pan.
Remove the daal from pan and wash thoroughly with water.

Add the washed daal and a cup of water in a pressure cooker. Give it pressure for 15 minutes or until the lentils become soft.

Heat mustard oil in a pan.

Add bay leaf and dry red chilli in hot oil.

Then add crushed fennel seeds, hing and turmeric powder. Mix it for 15 seconds.

Immediately add green chillies and ginger paste. Mix them for 20 seconds.

Then add the boiled daal and salt. Cook it for 5 minutes and mash the daal with your spatula a bit. The consistency will become thick.

Check the seasoning and adjust it according to your taste.

Then turn off the heat.

Kata moshlar mangsho / Khara masala mutton

Whenever 'he' returns from market and gives me a bag of mutton, it always brings an extra big smile on my face and a great joy in my heart. I guess, this happens to many of you also . I always try to do something new to my mutton curry, because you all know about my experimental nature !! This time I made 'khara masala mutton', the taste was heavenly. After finishing the meal, there were nothing but bones in our plate. 'Khara masala' / 'kata moshla' means whole spices. You don't need to add any ground spices / paste in this curry. I think, this is an Eid special dish in Bangladesh. Always serve this mutton curry with plain rice, in that way you can purely enjoy the juicy mutton pieces with its aromatic gravy. Just give it a try and (I am sure) you will know what I am talking about.

Ingredients

15 - 20 pieces of mutton.
2 onion thinly sliced.
3 cloves of garlic roughly sliced.
2 inches of ginger, roughly sliced.
5 - 6 green chilies.
Whole spices (2 dry red chilies, 4 green cardamoms, 2 bay leaves, 6 cloves, 1 small cinnamon stick and 1 Teaspoon crushed coriander seeds).
1 Teaspoon turmeric powder.
Salt and sugar.
3 Teaspoons of beaten curd / yogurt.
1/2 cup of water.

5 Tablespoons of mustard oil.

Steps

Put mutton pieces, onion+garlic+ginger slices in a kadai / pan.
Add everything in the kadai except curd, water and oil.
I just replaced dry red chilies with 1 tsp of red chilli powder.
Now add the mustard oil.
You can replace mustard oil with white oil, but the taste will differ.
Mix the entire thing with your hand very well and let it rest for 45 minutes.
After that put the kadai on burner and turn on the heat.

Add half cup of water, cover the kadai / pan and cook it in high flame for first 10 minutes.

Then bring the flame to medium and cook the mutton for 1 hour.

You don't need to add any water because mutton itself will release lots of water.

After 1 hour the meat will look like this.

Add the beaten curd and mix it for just 2 minutes.

Now take a cooker and add 1 cup of water.

Add the entire mutton with gravy in the cooker.

Give it pressure for 15-20 minutes or untill the mutton becomes fully soft.

I didn't have much time to cook, that's why I used cooker. But if you have time, cook the mutton in kadai untill it become soft. The gravy will become more tasty.

Mutton Dopyaza / Mutton curry with double onion

In India, 'mutton dopyaza' is a very frequently ordered dish in restaurants. 'Dopyaza' means double amount of onion. From this curry you will get juicy meat, thick gravy and some nice crunch of onions. You can make this curry with chicken and fish also. If you make this dish in any potluck or party, it will become the main attraction. I tried to keep the recipe very simple and easy. Just give it a try.

Ingredients

10 - 15 pieces of half boil mutton with stock.
1 medium onion finely chopped.
1 Teaspoon ginger and garlic paste.
5 Teaspoons of curd / yogurt.
Salt and sugar.
Spice powder (1 Teaspoon turmeric powder, 1 Teaspoon red chilli powder, 1/2 Teaspoon coriander powder and 1 Teaspoon garam masala powder).
Some onion cubes.
3 - 4 green chilies.
4 Tablespoons of mustard oil.

Steps

Put the mutton pieces in a pressure cooker with a cup of water and pinch of salt. Give it pressure for 15 minutes or until the meat become little soft. Do not make the mutton fully soft.

Heat oil in a pan.

Add chopped onion. Fry it for 7-8 minutes.

Then add ginger and garlic paste, salt and all the above mentioned spice powder. Mix it very well for 3 minutes.

Bring the heat to low and add the curd and pinch of sugar. Mix it very well for 2 minutes.

Now add the boiled mutton pieces. Don't add the stock now. Mix the meat with the masala very well for 5 minutes.

Then add the mutton stock. Cook this in medium flame until the mutton become fully tender.

In a different pan heat 2 tsps of white oil.

Add onion cubes and green chilies. Fry them for 1 - 2 minutes.

After cooking the mutton properly, add this fried onion and green chilies. Mix the entire thing once and turn off the heat.

Mutton should have some thick gravy. After adding the fried onion in mutton, don't cook it too much. Otherwise you will not get the nice crunch from onion.

Chinese (style) Fried Rice

I guess almost everybody love indo-chinese food. The recipe of this fried rice is also indo-chinese and homemade version. I heard from many foodies that in homemade fried rice, there is always lack of that chinese flavour / restaurant flavour. But after following this recipe, you will forget about this complain. You can serve various side dishes with this kind of 'fried rice'. Try this in your kitchen and let me know about your 'chinese cooking' story.

Ingredients

4 cups of left over rice (for best result).
1 cup of finely chopped mix veggies (carrots, capsicum, french beans, onion, cabbage, mushrooms).
1 clove of garlic finely chopped.
2 green chilies finely chopped.
1 Teaspoon black pepper powder.
1 Teaspoon white pepper powder.
1 Teaspoon soy sauce.
1 Teaspoon sesame oil.
½ Teaspoon msg (optional).
Salt.
Some chopped spring onion.
3 Tablespoons of white oil.

Steps

Heat white oil in a wok.
Add chopped garlic and green chilies. Saute them for 30 seconds.

Add the chopped mix veggies with pinch of salt. Fry them in high flame for 5-6 minutes. Then add the left over rice, soy sauce, msg, salt, black and white pepper powder. Mix them very well for 4 minutes.

Now add the sesame oil. Mix the oil with the rice very well for 2 minutes.

Lastly add some chopped spring onion and mix it.

Check the seasoning and adjust it according to your taste.

Then turn off the heat.

Jali Kabab / Net Kabab (Kebab)

I guess many people are not familiar with this name, believe me, I was also not. 'He' is a big fan of kababs, that's why I always try to find new recipes for kababs. This year, on his birthday, I made these 'jali' kababs. The concept and taste were totally new to us. But luckily 'net kabab' brought a big smile on his face and that was my real satisfaction. 'Jali' means net and they have net like texture. You can make this with mutton / beef / chicken. After trying this I can tell you one thing that you will be finding excuses to make these kababs.

Ingredients

3 cups of minced meat.
2 - 3 breads soaked into water.
1 small onion finely chopped.
2 Teaspoons chopped ginger and garlic.
3 Teaspoons chopped green chilies.
4 - 5 Teaspoons chopped coriander leaves.
2 Teaspoons of tomato ketchup.
3 Teaspoons of chilli sauce.
1 Teaspoons black pepper powder.
Salt.
1 egg.
Some bread crumbs.
While oil for deep frying.

Steps

Take a mixing bowl.
Add minced meat, soaked bread (binding element), salt, black pepper powder, onion, ginger, garlic, green chilies, coriander leaves, tomato ketchup and chilli sauce.

Mix the entire thing very well with your hand. Now divide the mixture into similar portions of kababs.

All of them will be very fragile, so carefully coat them in bread crumbs and give them oval shape.

Now beat an egg.

Dip one coated kabab in this beaten egg and place it in the hot oil.

Repeat the same process with all of them.

Fry them from both sides till golden in color.

This frying process will take time.

Before removing from the pan, sprinkle some more beaten egg on the kababs and fry them for just 1-2 minutes.

By this process the kababs will get 'net' like texture.

Then keep them on a tissue paper to absorb the extra oil.

Paneer Kofta Curry / Fried Cottage cheese balls curry

Last weekend I wanted to make something new veg maincourse, that's why I chose this 'paneer kofta curry' and it was just delicious. You can make kofta curry with raw banana, jack fruit, chicken, fish, mutton etc. They all tastes really good. I made it with paneer kofta, you can see how good looking they are and by clicking the picture below you can see how it's prepared. I served this curry with plain rice but you can also serve with naan, kulcha, pulao, jeera rice or even with paratha. Every combo will make your meal a special one. There are several ways you can make this curry, here is how I made it.

Ingredients

10 - 15 paneer koftas.
1 onion thinly sliced.
2 inches of ginger, roughly chopped.
2 cloves of garlic, roughly chopped.
2 green chillies, sliced.
1 tomatoes, chopped.
10 - 12 cashews.
Whole spices(4 green cardamoms, 1 cinnamon stick, 6 black peppercorn, 4 cloves).
Spice powder (1 Teaspoon turmeric powder, ½ Teaspoon red chilli powder, 1 Teaspoon garam masala powder).
2 Teaspoons kasuri methi / dry fenugreek leaves.
4 Tablespoons of cream.
Salt and sugar.

Warm water.

5 Tablespoons of white oil.

Steps

Heat 1 tablespoon oil in a pan.
Add chopped garlic and ginger. Saute them for 30 seconds.
Add sliced onion. Fry them for 5 minutes.
Then add cashews and green chillies. Fry them another 3 minutes.
Then add chopped tomatoes, pinch of salt and sugar.
Cook it till they become mushy.
After put the mixture in a blending jar and make a smooth paste.
Now heat the remaining oil.
Add the whole spices. Saute them for a minute.
Then bring the heat lower and add all the spice powder. Mix them for 45 seconds.

After that add the smooth paste of onion and tomato. Mix it for 6 minutes in medium flame.

Add salt and sugar as per your taste. Mix them until the oil separates.

Then add a cup of warm water. Cook this for 8 minutes.

Then add the cream and kasuri methi. Mix it well.

Now add the paneer koftas in the curry. Mix and simmer for 2-3 minutes.

Then turn off the heat.

If you are planning to eat this later, then don't add the koftas in the curry. Just add them in the curry before serving. Don't forget to warm up the curry a bit.

Paneer Kofta / Fried Cottage Cheese Balls

'Kofta' is a very flexible food item, you can serve them as starter or you can soak them in gravy and serve as maincourse also. This was my very first attempt on 'kofta' and from the beginning I was a bit nervous because I often heard that while frying them, kofta has a chance to break. But I carefully maintained the proportion of ingredients and taaddaaa ...!! All of my 'kofta's came out perfectly and they were scrumptious. Try this in your kitchen and let me know how it turns out.

Ingredients

2 cups of paneer chunks.
1 small boiled potato (shredded).
5 Tablespoons of finely chopped onion.
1 Teaspoon of finely chopped green chilies.
6 Tablespoons of finely chopped carrots and bell peppers.
2 Teaspoons of chopped coriander leaves.
2 Teaspoons cornflour.
½ Teaspoon red chilli powder.
2 Teaspoons garam masala powder.
½ Teaspoon dry mango powder (amchoor).
Salt and sugar.
Lots of raisins.
White oil for deep frying.

Steps

First shred the paneer cubes finely.
Then heat a pan.
Add the chopped carrots and bell peppers.

Don't add oil. Saute them for 2-3 minutes, all of their water will dry out.

Remove them from the pan and add in the paneer.

Now add rest of the ingredients one by one except raisins, salt and sugar.

Mix them first, then add salt and pinch of sugar. Again mix it very well with your hand.

Now make a lemon sized ball from the mixture. Put 2-3 raisins (or chopped dry fruits) in the center, seal the edges and again roll it gently.

Make all the balls from the rest of the mixture.

Now for safety put a small portion of the mixture in the medium hot oil first. If it came out perfectly then add rest of the paneer balls. Oil should be medium hot, not cold or smoking hot.

Fry them till becomes golden in color.

Remove the kofta-s from the oil and keep them on a tissue paper.
